

TESLA Gold Series

BLUSHIELD - Tesla Gold EMF Protection technology

The new-edge science of epigenetics recognises that an organism's biology and genetic activity are directly influenced by their interaction with the environment. If our cells function poorly, then tissues and organs can become compromised as our overall health is determined by the health of every individual cell. Cells, tissues and organs are coherent and cooperative systems.

Blushield intelligent technology releases millions of Nature's frequencies/signals within the human responsive range every 30 seconds, actively keeping us in a coherent and cooperative environment. The cells recognise this coherent field which they have evolved with since the beginning and resonate with the Blushield coherent field rather than be affected by EMF. Just as EMF can affect every cell at once, Blushield can protect every cell at once. Adhering to natural laws, Blushield utilises crystal photonics with scalar waves as humans and Nature function using scalar waves.

We are destined to use technology to ensure our survival.

*By controlling our internal and external environment,
we have the power to control our biology and become masters of our fate.*

Bruce Lipton PhD

Putting Wi-Fi in schools; allowing cordless phones that radiate constantly to be manufactured; placing wireless baby monitors near an infant; using a wireless tablet, smart phone or computer while pregnant; holding a cell phone next to the head and keeping a cell phone in a bra or hip pocket or under a pillow; placing cell phone antennas near homes, schools and on hospitals; metering electricity, water and gas with wireless smart meters and designing smart appliances for the home will be viewed by future generations as dumb technology generated by greed for a population that is largely ignorant of the consequences. We need to protect the health and wellbeing of future generations, because without them there is no future! If we don't do it . . . who will?

Dr Magda Havas PhD

Lipton, B PhD and Bhaerman S, Spontaneous Evolution:: Our Positive Future and A Way to Get There from Here

Havas, M PhD <https://emfscientist.org/index.php/science-policy/expert-emf-scientist-quotations>

Our health is determined by the health of every individual cell

The Universe's matter is organised by information, an entangled matrix of invisible energy represented as energy patterns contained within the field. In designing the human body, cellular communities developed amazing technologies that were needed to manipulate, regulate and precisely control their environment. Cellular technology created us, and our 50 trillion individual cells learned to live and work in harmony.

The science of epigenetics recognises that the environment, not the DNA in the nucleus, determines the actions of the cell. Information from the environment is translated into biological responses via the action of the cell membrane, which acts as the cell's skin as well as its brain. The cell membrane is more accurately a "crystal semiconductor with gates and channels". Those words define a computer chip, which reminds us that both computers and cells are programmable, and for each, the programmer is always outside the mechanism. Just as our brain runs our body, the cell membrane is the brain of the cell. Built into the membrane are protein switches that respond to the environmental signals by relaying their information to internal protein pathways.

Because behaviour is created through the interaction of proteins with their complementary signals, there are really, only two sources of dis-ease: either the proteins are defective, or the signals are distorted. Depending on the nature of the environmental signals, the contractor characteristic of the epigenetic mechanism can modify a gene to produce either healthy or dysfunctional protein products. In other words, a person can be born with healthy genes but, through a distraction in epigenetic signalling, (environmental signalling) can develop a mutant condition such as cancer. Signals represent both physical and energetic information that comprise the world in which we live.

*We are destined to use technology to ensure our survival.
By controlling our internal and external environment,
we have the power to control our biology and become masters of our fate.*

Bruce Lipton PhD